LIBERALS ARE CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS

PARTY KING LEADS EXPECTED TO HAVE WORKING MAJORITY IN NEW HOUSE OF COMMONS

To-morrow Will Be Polling-day Throughout Canada; Liberal Leaders Say All Indications Point to Majority in Support of Mackenzie King Which Will Give Stable Government Under His Leadership

Ottawa, Sept. 13.—Control of the next House of Commons by the Liberal Party seemed assured to-day as election eve reports filtered into National Liberal headquarters from every part of the country.

A summary of these reports indicated the Liberal and Liberal-Progressive members of the next House would number about 140, a working majority over the Conservative Party.

This prediction was based on gains in the Maritimes and Ontario, with the Liberal Party holding its strength in Quebec as in the last House. It is believed the Liberal claims in the Maritimes will be exceeded, while there are good prospects of some of the few Conservatives in Quebec losing their present seats.

From Ontario westward Liberals are conceded heavy gains as a result of the elimination of three-cornered fights, which defeated their candidates in the last election. These gains are expected to affect Manitoba, chiefly and Alberta to some extent, while the Liberals are sure of holding Saskatchewan solidly. With all but a few Progressives opposed to the Conservative policy, the anti-Meighen forces of the prairies are expected to be far larger than in the last House.

Telegrams received here from Porage la Prairie indicate Mr. Meighen will have the fight of his life to hold his seat in view of the evident swing of sentiment against him throughout the prairies.

In British Columbia Liberals stand to gain several seats, but even if it should lose strength in the Pacific Coast province the party would still be able to control a majority, it is believed.

LEADERS FINISH FIGHT

Party organizations are putting on the final touches for their voting day efforts all over Canada. The two leaders are winding up the campaign in Ontario, Right Hon. Mackenzie King, the Liberal leader, is speaking in the town of the Ottawa Valley, with the final meeting in Renfrew and Premier Meighen speaking in Cobourg.

150 ITALIANS WHO LANDED IN NOVA SCOTIA ILLEGALLY ARE QUICKLY ROUNDED UP

Halifax, Sept. 13.—The Canadian Government cruiser Arcturion is expected to reach Halifax to-day with the Italian steamship Dori, which yesterday threw the district around St. Margaret's Bay into a furor of excitement by landing between 100 and 200 foreigners, believed to be mostly Italians, at Mill Cove, a fishing hamlet, forty miles southwest of this city.

A party of 102 of the Italians from the island of Sicily, rounded up during the night and early this morning by immigration and mounted police authorities, were brought here this morning and lodged in the immigration building, there to remain under guard pending instructions from Ottawa. Shortly after, six other Italians who had been picked up on their way to the city were brought in by the police, making a total of 108.

150 IN PARTY

While little definite information can be secured as to the number of men on board the Dori, it is thought by officials the number was around 150, and those yet to be accounted for number forty.

Halifax, Sept. 13.—Between 100 and 200 Sicilians, disillusioned, seafaring and footsore, were being rounded up and cared for by Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Immigration authorities along the main highway between this city and Mill Cove, on St. Margaret's Bay, about forty miles southwest of here, this morning, while the steamer, which they declared they had paid handsomely to land them in the United States, the Italian freighter Dori, 2,300 tons, was lying in Mill Cove under surveillance of customs officers awaiting the arrival of a Government cruiser to escort her to Halifax.

SAID HALIFAX IN U.S.

Questioned through interpreters, the Sicilians declared they had paid from 2,000 to 10,000 lire apiece to be landed in the United States and that when the Dori cast anchor in Mill Cove on Saturday they were told they had reached their destination. They declared the captain had told them on setting them ashore that a three-mile walk would bring them to Halifax, which was in the United States and where they would find the work and prosperity they had traveled so far to seek.

STRIKE SETTLEMENT PLAN A FAILURE

British Coal Owners Refuse to Negotiate on a National Basis

London, Sept. 13.—Continuance of the coal strike deadlock in Great Britain was indicated this morning when it was announced unofficially that the Mining Association this afternoon would report to the Government that the mine owners' associations throughout the country had refused by vote to give the Mining Association power to negotiate a settlement with the men on a national basis.

This is a flat refusal of the proposal advanced by A. J. Cook, general secretary of the Miners' Union. The owners have consistently held they would make only district settlements.

The strike is now in its twenty-first week.

The officers of the Dori, questioned by customs officers, who were allowed aboard only after official threats, declared they had set the men ashore because of threatened mutiny. They stated the Italian passengers were immigrants who had been taken aboard at Algiers August 6 and that when the Dori, forced to enter St. Margaret's Bay because of engine trouble, anchored so near the shore, the passengers could not be restrained from their desire to be on dry land and were therefore allowed to land.

As they took up their forty-mile walk in groups as landed, the men scattered well over the road but it was anticipated all would eventually come in contact with the squads of police sent out to intercept them.

CALLED AT BERMUDA

The officers of the Dori declared they had sailed from Algiers with a cargo of iron ore August 6 and had called at Bermuda September 4. This is borne out by records in the shipping registers. The captain said the Italians had been taken aboard at Algiers as passengers and that he had been engaged to take them to Italy after completing his cargo voyage to America. He had not intended to land them in the United States, he said, because of the quota law. He explained his presence in local waters by saying he was planning to land his passengers here so they might take another steamer to Italy.

Four Made Escape When Yacht Sank

Vancouver, Sept. 13.—Efforts were being made to-day to salvage the yacht Dinty Moore, owned by J. B. Williams, city solicitor, which sank in Anderson Cove, Texada Island, forty-five miles northwest of here, early yesterday morning when she slid off a rock on which her nose had stranded, into fifty feet of water.

The vessel left here Friday with a party of hunters aboard, all of whom were ashore when she sank, with the exception of four, including the crew, who escaped uninjured.

MAYORS TALK OVER NEW PHONE LINE LINKING KAMLOOPS

Long Distance Connection Between Victoria-Vancouver and Kamloops is Success

Mayors J. C. Pendray, L. D. Taylor and A. G. Meighen Exchange Greetings

Instantaneous communication over the long distance telephone between Kamloops, Vancouver and Victoria was established this morning by the B.C. Telephone Company in a successful test which opened the new line which places Kamloops residents in touch with the Pacific Coast by telephone for the first time in history.

Mayor J. C. Pendray, Victoria; Mayor Louis D. Taylor, Vancouver, and Mayor A. G. Meighen, Kamloops, had the honor of inaugurating the service, chatting comfortably over the wire in a three-way conversation that lasted for ten minutes. Clearly as if the speaker had been in the next room, the voice of Mayor Meighen came over the wire to Mayor Pendray's office at the City Hall. Mayor Pendray answered in a voice that was not even audible across the width of the room, yet it was received at Kamloops perfectly.

The Chief Magistrate joined in congratulating the B.C. Telephone Company on the success of this important new link in the service, and extended mutual greetings on behalf of their corporations. Mayor Taylor extended a hearty welcome to Mayor Meighen to visit him at Vancouver. Mayor Pendray dated up Mayor Meighen as joint delegates to the Canadian Good Roads Association convention to be held at Edmonton on September 28.

B.C. Nicholas, editor of The Times, closed the test with a two-minute conversation with the Kamloops chief magistrate, remarking on the clarity of the voice and predicting that aeroplanes would make the next link in the chain that will one day bind the interior to the coast.

It is interesting to note the route taken by land line to Nahalmo, thence by submarine cable for thirty-five miles to Vancouver, where it was (Concluded on page 3.)

CHIEF TORY ORGAN PREDICTS LIBERAL-PROGRESSIVE VICTORY

Montreal, Sept. 13.—Big interests of the East are looking for a Liberal-Progressive coalition government.

While not conceding that King will have a sufficiently strong following to control the next House, they admit that Meighen chances of being returned are nil and that the Liberals and Progressives will coalesce under King and form a government.

Even the Montreal Star, largest Conservative organ in Canada, in its editorial columns to-day, indicates the probability of a coalition government.

"King cannot win," says the Star, "but Forke and Henry Wise Wood can."

DR. KING PLANS DEVELOPMENT OF VICTORIA PORT

All Resources of Liberal Government Would be Used to Build up City's Commerce

Facilities Necessary For Large-scale Expansion Would be Installed

A far-reaching programme by which the resources and property of the Federal Government will be utilized to the fullest possible extent in building up the commerce of Victoria and in marketing the products of the interior of British Columbia through this port was announced by Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works in the Mackenzie King Government, in a statement issued from Fernie to-day.

If the electors of Victoria wish to take advantage of these plans, Dr. King declared, they should vote for the Liberal candidate here, Carew Martin. He added that the Liberal Party proposed to install all facilities necessary to develop this and other coast ports.

Great importance is attached to Dr. King's statement because of his position as Minister of Public Works in the late Liberal Government, and the certainty that he will continue to hold that portfolio if the Liberal Party is returned to power at to-morrow's election. Dr. King's forecast was taken as an official and authorized statement of the Liberal Party's policy should it be elected.

WESTERN POLICY URGED
Dr. King's full statement follows: "I believe it is advisable to suggest that all forces of progress should unite in supporting the Liberal candidates in the Province of British Columbia when they cast their ballots on Tuesday. I have served for the last five years as (Concluded on page 3.)

Stevens on House of Commons stationery bearing date June 20, 1925, which advised the trading in of stock in the Canadian United States Corporation for stock in the Lewis Corporation.

Vancouver, Sept. 13.—Hon. H. H. Stevens' assertion that his name was forged to a letter promoting a United States oil company and written on House of Commons stationery was answered by The Vancouver Sun to-day in a rejoinder which brought out these salient facts:

(1) That Mr. Stevens admitted the authorship of this letter in a speech last Thursday and defended his action.
(2) That Mr. Stevens allowed the letter to appear before the public for five days before he said it was forged.

LIBERALS WIND UP CAMPAIGN CONFIDENT TIDE HAS SET IN FAVOR OF WESTERN POLICIES

Victorians Will Vote for Party Which Brought Prosperity, Not for Meighen's Eastern Programme, Martin Predicts; Liberal Leaders Expect Net Gain in British Columbia, as Tory Chiefs Finish Fight Purely on Defensive; Liberal Candidate Will Make Final Appeal at Big Rally Here To-night

Victoria Liberals are winding up their election campaign in support of Carew Martin, Liberal candidate, to-day optimistic over the evident turn of public sentiment here in favor of their Party.

While preparing for his final word to the electors at a rally in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium to-night, Mr. Martin gave out a statement declaring himself delighted with the response to his appeal in all portions of the city.

"The campaign which is now concluding has produced a striking swing of public opinion in favor of the Liberal Party here as elsewhere in Canada," Mr. Martin said.

"There is no doubt that the political tide has made a strong turn in favor of Liberalism during the last few days. Despite the numerous issues which have been discussed in the press and on different platforms the average person realizes that so far as he is concerned the real issue in this campaign is simply prosperity.

LIBERALS BROUGHT PROSPERITY
"It is impossible for the Conservative politicians to persuade the average man or woman that the prosperity we now enjoy is not in a large measure due to the goodwill and ability of the Liberal leaders. The elector views with dread the heavy taxation, business depression and adverse trade balance in which the country labored during the last Conservative administration and he has no desire to return to such conditions."

"He has viewed with his own eyes the gradual return of good times, brought about by the Liberals in the most adverse circumstances imaginable. He appreciates the reduction of his income tax; the reduction in the cost of motor cars; the abolition of the receipt tax; the return of penny postage, and other reductions the Liberals have brought about."

"No matter how much the Tory leaders may argue, mere reductions are merely 'shams and humbug' every person knows and cannot be persuaded otherwise, that when he now only pays a two-cent stamp on letters in place of the three-cent formerly required, he is saving himself one cent every time he sends a letter. He also knows that if he now only has to pay $500 for a motor car which a few months ago had cost him $1,000 he is saving himself $500 which he can use for other purposes."

"There is a strong feeling, that the return of Mr. Meighen with his high protection policy would mean immediate increase in taxation and cost (Concluded on page 3.)

To-day's rise was caused by torrents pouring from the Cottonwood into the Neosho seven miles southwest of here.

BOOTLEGGERS IN WINNIPEG RAIDED

Police Start Campaign to End Illegal Sale of Liquor

Winnipeg, Sept. 13.—The Winnipeg police morality department started on a campaign over the weekend to rid the city of the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors.
As a result seven breweries will be charged in police court with violation of the Manitoba Temperance Act, and the proprietors of seven "clubs" will answer similar charges. Three owners of private residences will also appear in court. The police allege they seized beer in all the raids made, seventeen in number.

LUMBER MARKET HIGHER; LOG PRICES ADVANCE A DOLLAR

Seattle, Sept. 13.—Feeling among West Coast lumber mills is optimistic at all points excepting the price of the demand for logs. The demand for logs is high, which has been temporarily saturated with large and medium size squares. Timber 2x4s and 4x6s are in demand, representing the West Coast forests, have been sold in cargo lots for several weeks, the mills should get to represent a living price, but at what Japanese buyers are willing to pay, owing to their success in setting one mill or group of mills against the other. California is higher and is taking all supplies offered, both sold and unsold, with prospects of a further advance in October. This is the height of the building season in Southern California and it is planned to construct rows of bungalows to offer for sale before the winter tourist season sets in. KING ADDRESSED GREAT AUDIENCE

Liberal Leader Heard by Over 8,000 Electors in Ottawa

Campaign Ends With Brief Speeches at Several Points To-day

Ottawa, Sept. 13 (Canadian Press).—Finishing his Federal election campaign where he had started it nearly two months ago, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King addressed a mass meeting in Ottawa Saturday night.

It was the last big meeting of his campaign. To-day he is speaking briefly at a number of points near Ottawa.

The attendance exceeded the seating capacity. At one time during the evening over 8,000 people were in the building. The Liberal leader was given an ovation when he arrived and most of the audience remained until the end of Mr. King's speech, just before midnight.

Hon. P. J. A. Carlin also addressed the audience in support of the Liberal candidates in Ottawa, E. R. K. Chevier and Gordon C. Edwards.

RECORD REVIEWED

Mr. King reviewed the record of his Government and urged that under the Liberal regime Canada had been able to reduce the tariff, the income tax and its railway liabilities, and in addition had reduced the national debt. He had just come, he said, from Ottawa, where he believed he had been able to persuade the citizens that the Liberal Government, which was accused of having ruined Ottawa for three days, perhaps knew better what was good for the automobile industry than some people who had complained the most.

"All we did was to do away with monopoly profits and not with reasonable tariffs," said Mr. King.

NEW FACTORIES

He had challenged anybody in his audience to say if Ottawa had really suffered through the Robb budget. And what was the answer?

"No," he shouted, "nobody in the audience."

That was the meaning of the reply, said Mr. King. "There was not a single voice in that vast gathering to reply."

They were building new factories in Ottawa to meet the added demand for the Canadian National Railway this year.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

He declared Sir Henry Thornton expected a surplus of $20,000,000 to the Canadian National Railway this year.

BOIVIN'S MEMORY

Mr. King repeated his defence of the late Hon. George H. Boivin and said Premier Meighen and his following had made criticisms of the former Minister of Customs, which the customs probe committee "were not able or were not willing to put into its report to Parliament."

Only last Thursday, the Liberal leader continued, Mr. Meighen had declared Mr. Boivin had sold seized liquor to a friend of his to raise money to carry on his campaign. Such charges should only have been made in the formal report of the customs committee, Mr. King said, and the charge could not be decently made now that Mr. Boivin was dead and unable to defend himself.

In a review of the constitutional issue, Mr. King dealt chiefly with the manner in which the Meighen Government had been formed. He said he did not object to somebody acting for a minister who was dead. His complaint was that the Meighen Government had acted for ministers because the House had refused to vote supply.

Mr. King said he had reliable information that since dissolution of the Meighen Government had been spending about $1,000,000 daily obtained by Governor-General's warrants.

CIVIL SERVICE

Mr. King hoped to see the formation of a council which would discuss civil service problems. This council would be formed of members of the service and representatives of the Government, who would meet and review matters affecting the service. If he was returned to power, he would try and put back into the act some features which Senate amendments had sought to remove.

He also promised a revision of salaries which would be based on the cost of living and general conditions in the service. Mr. King repeated the pledge made earlier in the evening by the two Liberal candidates, that there would be no interference with the principle of competitive examination and the merit system of promotion.

Mr. Carlin promised that "the result of the election will be the same as in the past." He said the Liberals would secure three seats in the province and would make such gains everywhere that the party would be returned to power.

SPOKE IN OSHTAWA

Oshawa, Ont., Sept. 13.—Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King addressed a large audience of people of Oshawa and the surrounding district at a Liberal Federal election meeting here on Saturday.

Mr. King spoke at length of the Oshawa delegation which went to Ottawa last Spring and opposed the reduction in the duties on automobiles.

In the capital, said Mr. King, the Oshawa people had been courteously received. He himself had promised to come to Oshawa.

"I am here this afternoon to implement my pledge," he said.

"I said that I would lose a dollar or lose his job in Oshawa as a result of any tariff change. I have fulfilled that pledge."

Dealing with the reference he had made at Campbellton, N.B., to the delegation, he said he had told there of how difficult it was for men in the basic industries to get up deputations to go to Ottawa.

FACTS DESIRED

"I said it was not a question of numbers or of demonstrations, but of the facts of the case," he said. "I said that I would lose a dollar or lose his job as having an advantage, but I referred to big interests as having advantages which you as a worker have not."

"I may have used in the form of an interrogation 'Who paid for the delegation?' I made no reference to the McGowan reference to his interest factors as such. If any other interpretation has been put upon my remarks that interpretation is wrong."

NEW PROSPERITY

The Liberal leader's reference to the new prosperity in the city of Oshawa was greeted with general applause and cheers.

R. P. BUTCHART HEADS BIG CEMENT MERGER

Portland, Ore., Sept. 13.—Merger of the Oregon Portland Cement Company with a plant at Oswego and the Portland Cement Company with a plant on the Snake River in Eastern Oregon was revealed here today when stockholders received notices of intention to secure more capital in a new company which purposes to buy both properties.

At the present time both companies are controlled by the same group, with R. P. Butchart of Victoria, B.C., president of both.

Merger in July of the Ross Island Sand and Gravel Company with the Beaver Portland Cement Company, operating a cement plant in the state at Gold Hill, probably precipitated the merger. The Ross Island group, headed by D. L. Carpenter, controls 25,000,000 cubic yards of sand and gravel, most of the available supply here.

FALSEHOOD FOUND IN McPHERSON CASE

Woman Admits Story of Occupancy of Seaside Cottage 'All Fake'

Los Angeles, Sept. 13.—The Los Angeles Examiner, in a copyrighted story to-day, says Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman McDonald Seiffert, 313 a week seamstress, has confessed that her story of having shared a seaside cottage at Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, with a sister, the anonymous Miss X, and Kenneth G. Ormiston, former Angelus Temple radio operator here, was a fake for which she was to receive $5,000 from Alimee Seiffert, the evangelist.

The admission was made in a sworn statement.

SISTERS MET

The alleged confession climaxed a dramatic meeting between Mrs. Seiffert and her twin sister, Mrs. Viria Kimball of Oakland, and is said to have been made at the direct request of the latter. They met in the newspaper office, Mrs. Seiffert having been under guard from her cell in the jail, where she had spent two days since her arrest Saturday on charges of issuing worthless checks.

The sisters kissed, and after a consultation with her lawyer, Mrs. Seiffert announced her intention of "making a clean breast of the whole thing." She then proceeded to dictate her statement, which was acknowledged by a notary.

"GOOD MONEY"

Mrs. Seiffert began her affidavit by saying she had been approached in San Francisco about July 30 by a man who gave his name as "Mr. Martin" and who asked her if she would come to Los Angeles in "some work which would pay good money and would only take a few weeks, or not all of that time."

She said the man could give her only a few details, but informed her the work offered was in connection with the McPherson case. She stated she was instructed to send a telegram to District Attorney Keyes at Los Angeles, declaring her sister, who was in the East, had been with Ormiston at Carmel-by-the-Sea and that she had asked her to return immediately.

The same day Keyes received a wire from San Francisco signed "Belle Owens."

The San Francisco Examiner, in a copyrighted story, quoted Mrs. Viria Kimball, a twin sister of Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman, mystery woman of the Alimee Seiffert-McPherson case, as denying she had been ever in Carmel-by-the-Sea or knowing either Kenneth G. Ormiston, friend of Mrs. McPherson, or the evangelist herself.

Mrs. Wiseman, in an affidavit sworn to in Los Angeles, referred to a sister as having been the companion of Ormiston during a ten-day sojourn at Carmel. This woman, known in the official records as "Miss X," is Mrs. Kimball, according to her own statement, the only sister of Mrs. Wiseman. It is apparent she is the one referred to and who is supposed to be the elusive "Miss X."

UNUSUAL SENTENCE

London, Ont., Sept. 13.—A father passed sentence on his son in police court here Saturday and allowed him his liberty. A week ago, when Russell Graydon, twenty-two, appeared in court on a vagrancy charge, Magistrate Graydon said he would allow the accused's father, a magistrate in Eastern Ontario, to decide the fate of the son. The father wrote that the son had caused him much worry, but his affection urged him to ask for his son's release. Magistrate Graydon was as good as his word and he suspended sentence on condition that he return to his home.

connected up with the new Vancouver-Kamloops line opened formally to the public to-day. The entire route is over 365 miles, with the Vancouver-Kamloops link at 243 miles, via Mission.

For years the residents of the interior city have endeavored to secure direct telephone connection with the coast, but such a project has never been economically feasible until the present time. The opening of the new Fraser River highway has been one of the leading factors in this new telephone development.

The new line follows the telephone company's own poles as far as Mission, and from there to Kamloops it is strung on the poles of the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs, placed on the right-of-way of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The total length of the line is 260 miles.

Before construction could commence, two members of the engineering department of the B.C. Telephone Company walked over every foot of the ground between Kamloops and Mission, measuring the distance between the poles and securing other data necessary for the making of plans.

Kamloops has long had its own telephone system, served by the B.C. Telephone Company, but it has not previously had long-distance telephone connection with the coast. It is anticipated that the new line will prove a boon to farmers and others in the Kamloops district because of the access which it will give them to their coast markets.

of manufactured articles, which is a situation that no one desires. The Conservative policy is dictated by Eastern interests and I see no reason why large manufacturers in Ontario should be nursed and enriched at the expense of the rank and file of the Canadian people and particularly the people of Western Canada.

"Mr. Mackenzie King's policy, on the other hand, is designed to give all persons in the country a fair share of prosperity and it does not favor enrichment of the few at the expense of the many."

"Realizing that the prosperity of Canada depends greatly upon the development of Western Canada, the Liberal party will proceed with the vigorous policy of Western development which will prove to be extremely beneficial to the citizens of Victoria."

BIG RALLY TO-NIGHT

Mr. Martin will speak to-night at an election eve rally which promises to jam the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium. Short speeches by the candidate and other leading Liberals, interspersed with music and other entertainment, will provide the programme. The speakers, in addition to Mr. Martin, will be: H. H. Shandley, president of the Victoria Liberal Association; Reeve Robert Macneil of Saanich; and W. McK. Ivel, B. C. Nicholas will preside. Arrangements have been made for an attractive programme between these speakers under the direction of the Victoria Liberal Association.

While Victoria Liberals were concluding the election fight, mainland supporters of the party throughout British Columbia united to-day in predicting a net gain for Liberalism in this Province at to-morrow's poll. The last two weeks have found Conservative organizers from Vancouver to the far ends of the Province shaky at the turn of public opinion against them. With their leader, Hon. H. H. Stevens, desperately on the defensive in the key seat of Vancouver Centre, Conservatives all over the Province have felt the moral effect of the slump suffered by the Minister of Customs. In the four Vancouver seats of Centre, Burrard, South and North, the Conservative Party was busy only with explanations and excuses as the campaign drew to an end.

EXPLANATION IS "DUD"

In Vancouver Mr. Stevens' explanation of his oil promotion letters fell flat. His statement that his name had been forged to a letter promoting an oil company and written on House of Commons stationery made little impression as he had spent five days attempting to explain this letter without once suggesting that it had been forged. The forgery statement was regarded as five days late.

The oil letters have caused a sensation not only in every riding of British Columbia, but all over Canada. They were featured in eastern newspapers over the week-end, and Conservative organizers clamored for some explanation which would overcome their effect. The result of the publication of these documents in British Columbia has been made all the more striking because of Mr. Stevens' position as chief investigator and moral reformer of the Conservative Party in the customs investigation.

INTERIOR VICTORIES FORECAST

whole campaign will be to add several seats to the Liberal strength in this Province, mainland Liberal leaders forecast. They are confident not only of beating Mr. Stevens in Vancouver, but of holding North Vancouver and possibly breaking into Burrard and Vancouver South. In the interior Cariboo, a Conservative gain in the last election, is virtually conceded to the Liberal. When the election is expected to hold the safe Liberal seat of Skeena and East Kootenay, Hon. J. H. King's riding. The progress of R. H. Gale, Liberal, in West Kootenay, too, has astounded his friends and enemies alike. In New Westminster, where W. G. McQuarrie was elected last Fall through the intervention of a powerful Labor candidate, he is having the fight of his battle in the present poll. The Labor candidate is not expected to secure a large vote this time, leaving the fight between the Liberal and Conservative candidates.

ISLAND LIBERALS CONFIDENT

On Vancouver Island outside Victoria, the Liberal campaign has met with a striking response. Supporters of C. H. O'Halloran, Liberal candidate in Nanaimo, declared their nominees would poll a heavy vote not only in his home districts in the south of the riding, but also in the northern end around Nanaimo.

In Comox-Alberni the only question in the size of the majority rolled up by A. W. Neill, Independent, running with Liberal support, Mr. Neill's friends believe. His work in the last two Parliaments has made Mr. Neill solid in every corner of the big northern Island riding.

YUKON LIBERALS OPTIMISTIC

Confident predictions are made in Dawson to-day that the Yukon, British Columbia's northern neighbor, will be back again in the Liberal column after election day. Assured he will receive the entire vote in Mayo district where very rapid development is being carried out by a large number of miners on the great silver mines there, also that White Horse, Dawson City and district will give him sweeping majorities. Fred. T. Congdon, Liberal candidate and Ex-M.P. for the Yukon, is now resting here.

During a very active and aggressive campaign he visited practically every centre of population in his huge riding using all methods of transportation and proving indefatigable in his efforts to explain benefits of the last Liberal budget and other legislation advanced by Mackenzie King for the masses.

He has been assured of majorities in 90 per cent of the divisions, having ducted a clean mainly fight that appealed greatly to Yukoners.

MARTIN FINISHES WEEK

In Victoria Mr. Martin wound up last week's campaigning with a meeting in St. James' Douglas School, Moss Street, Saturday night, when he spoke with W. T. Straith, Dr. Lewis Hall presiding.

The Liberal candidate appealed for support of a party which would bring about another reduction in taxation like that which it ordered in the Robb budget.

Is it good business to turn out a Government which has brought to the country the first prosperity it has seen since the war? he asked. "That is the question which you must ask yourself on election day. The Liberal Party made good its promise to reduce taxation this year and it will do it again."

O'HALLORAN ACTIVE

While Mr. Martin was speaking in the Sir James Douglas School, C. H. O'Halloran, Liberal candidate in Nanaimo, was speaking at St. Mark's Hall, Saanich, with Reeve Robert Macneil of that municipality.

Mr. Macneil attacked Premier Meighen's wartime election policy and his efforts to show that Canada's business was in a serious condition.

Norman Whittaker, Liberal candidate in Saanich for the Provincial Legislature, discussing the Customs investigation, affirmed that the Liberal Government had endeavored to "clean house" in the Customs Department long before Hon. H. H. Stevens had launched his Customs charges.

The Liberal Party has pledged itself to a further reduction in taxation if it is returned to power, Mr. O'Halloran stated. He pointed to the tax reductions of the Robb budget as evidence of the party's good faith in this connection.

Victoria Conservatives will conclude their campaign with a rally in the Royal Victoria Theatre to-night. Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Conservative candidate, and W. J. Bowser, K.C., will be the feature speakers, while R. E. Pooley, Leader of the Opposition in the Legislature, will preside. The speeches will be broadcast by C.F.C.T. A musical programme also has been arranged.

Minister from the Province desiring to build up a western progressive policy that will mean development not only of the port of Vancouver, but the ports of Victoria, New Westminster and Prince Rupert. This policy is not confined to those localities. We have behind these ports the greatest hinterland in the world and it is my purpose, if properly supported, to see to it that the trade that belongs to these ports comes to them. The advantages through the building up of these ports will be reflected not only in the interior of British Columbia, but in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

TO INSTALL FACILITIES

"It is my purpose to install all facilities necessary to market the products of these Provinces. We have tributary to the Pacific the great Peace River district, to-day isolated on account of lack of transportation. I shall use my best endeavors to see that proper facilities of this character are provided to adequately develop that great area."

VICTORIA SHOULD PARTICIPATE

"It is my desire to see that Victoria participates in this development. That they have opportunity of securing tonnage that is not available to mainland ports, and I am prepared to use Government property for facilities in order that this tonnage may come to that port and assist in moving this traffic. If the people of Victoria wish to receive the advantage of my suggestion Carew Martin should be sent to Ottawa to insist on Victoria, which is after all the great Pacific outport of Canada, having her fair share in the development which will take place under the western policies as indicated by Mackenzie King."

STEVENS ADMITS HE WROTE FAMOUS OIL LETTER, SAYS SUN; FORGERY STORY FIVE DAYS LATE

"Yesterday The Sun tried to suggest that I had done something wrong in dictating a letter which appeared on such stationery (House of Commons stationery) they endeavored to make it appear that I had used such stationery wholesale, while as a matter of fact, one letter was so written. If it was reproduced later it was not my doing."

"If this letter was a forgery or its reproduction not Mr. Stevens' doing, why did Mr. Stevens for over three years, as a director and promoter of this oil company, permit its wholesale sale, and allow it to be sent out broadcast?"

"If there is any forgery Mr. Stevens as a director of the oil company by permitting the use of the letter, has adopted the forgery, and is therefore doubly guilty."

CIRCULARS FRANKED

If this House of Commons letter is a forgery, why did Mr. Stevens later receive circulars from Ottawa franked by Mr. Stevens in House of Commons envelopes? Last Friday

The Province newspaper said editorially: "When Mr. Stevens tells us that his letters to an American oil company were those of a private investor, we have either to believe him or to remove him in our minds from the company of reputable men."

"The 'La Salle Hotel' letter written by Mr. Stevens, upon which part of the proof was based that Mr. Stevens was more than 'only a private investor', in fact a director and promoter of this company, reads: 'To show you, however, how impressed I have been with the company's possibilities, I have accepted their invitation to take a seat on the board of directors and expect to make a special effort to secure considerable additional finance.'"

After taking the stand that Stevens was only a 'private investor' and then being supplied with Mr. Stevens' own admission that he was one of the promoters of the company, how can The Province justify its present position? Why has The Province not removed him?"

"In the face of all this unmistakable evidence, how can Mr. Stevens make the puerile and belated cry of 'forgery'? How can The Province newspaper in the face of its editorial promise continue to condone the public immorality of Mr. Stevens?"

"Mr. Stevens' friends and party supporters, sensing that the public of Vancouver would not tolerate such rank abuse of the privileges of a member of the Parliament of Canada, realized that Mr. Stevens' only hope to avoid defeat was to repudiate his oil stock promotion letter by claiming it a forgery."

THE ISSUES

IN COMMON WITH THE ELECTORS OF
every other constituency throughout Canada the people of this community have had ample opportunity to judge the merits of the two cases placed before them by the representatives of the two political parties. In this riding Mr. Carew-Martin and Dr. Tolmie have conducted an energetic campaign which has been conspicuously good-natured from start to finish. Both men are well liked and highly respected; but they are politically hostile because of the vital difference between their respective policies. It is policy which counts. For this reason every voter should know exactly what the two candidates stand for. Mr. Martin asks the people of Victoria to vote for him because he supports these things:

- Lower income and other taxation.
- The reduction of the public debt.
- The reduction of the duties on motor cars.
- The British Preference.
- The establishment of trade arrangements with various parts of the Empire in order that economic bonds may be added to the sentimental bonds which now bind the British family together.
- The return to penny postage.
- Old Age Pensions.
- The abolition of the receipt tax.
- Rural credits—which means cheaper money for farmers.
- The reduction of the duties on implements used in the development of Canada's natural resources.
- The promotion of foreign trade under all heads—promotion which has turned an adverse trade balance of $30,000,000 which Mr. Meighen left in 1921 into a favorable balance of more than $400,000,000.
- Economic policies in general which have increased the number of workers in Canada from 439,000 in 1921 to more than 800,000 in 1926.

These are the policies for which Mr. Martin stands—the policies of the Liberal Party of Canada under the leadership of Mr. Mackenzie King. Dr. Tolmie has opposed these policies. His party has opposed them in the House of Commons and its speakers have attacked them from every platform in the country. The issue therefore is as clear as a pikestaff. If you agree with these policies and desire them to be continued and extended, it is your plain duty to vote for Mr. Martin. If you think such things as lower taxation, more trade with Great Britain, trade ties with the rest of the Empire, are a hoax and a sham, then you can record your protest by voting for Dr. Tolmie and a return to the stagnant conditions which confronted the country under a Conservative Government in 1920-1921.

"EMPLOYMENT IS AT HIGH LEVELS"

HERE ARE A FEW EXTRACTS FROM the September circular of the Royal Bank of Canada from its head office in Montreal:

The general course of business so far this year has been very satisfactory in practically all branches and gives much assurance as to the substantial soundness of its foundations. The tangible figures of trade and transportation as they have come in have shown general gains over the previous year. Freight car loadings over the first of January and fourth of August, the latest available date, total 1,840,721 against 1,629,371 for the same period in 1925, increases over last year being in grain, coal, forest products, merchandise and miscellaneous freight. BANK DEBITS TO INDIVIDUAL ACCOUNTS, WHICH CONSTITUTE A GOOD INDEX TO THE VOLUME OF CURRENT BUSINESS, ARE RUNNING WELL ABOVE THE TOTALS OF 1925. AND FOR THE FIRST SIX MONTHS OF THE YEAR SHOW A GAIN OF MORE THAN 13 PER CENT.

Every part of the country, with the exception of some of the Maritime sections, shows a higher total of building contracts awarded for the first seven months of the year, the aggregate value for the Dominion being $23,405,300 as compared with $14,723,500 for the same period last year.

Reports of wholesalers and retail trade throughout the country are almost uniformly good. EMPLOYMENT IS AT HIGH LEVELS. The increased volume of production and larger returns from industry are reflected in the investment markets, bank deposits and the record of life insurance sales.

The major manufacturing industries have been generally on a more satisfactory level of operations. The iron and steel industry is holding up much better than last year, as the result of a renewal of railroad equipment buying and the greater activities of the agricultural implements and automobile manufacturers.

The statement also points out that savings bank deposits for the first half of this year show an increase over the same period of 1925 of $9,349,800. Life insurance sold has advanced in the same period by more than ten per cent. Note especially, however, that line in the Bank's statement which says that "EMPLOYMENT IS AT HIGH LEVELS."

The effects of the policies of the King Government during the last five years are making themselves felt. Why risk spoiling them by letting Mr. Meighen turn things upside down.

A LATE DISCOVERY

HOW WAS IT THAT IT TOOK MR. H. H. Stevens five days to discover that the American oil letter which he is charged with writing on House of Commons stationery was a forgery?

This does not fit in with the admission which Mr. Stevens made of the authorship of the letter in question on Thursday night and reported in Friday's issue of The Vancouver Daily Province in these words:

Yesterday The Sun tried to suggest that I had done something wrong in dictating a letter which appeared on such stationery. They endeavored to make it appear that I had used such stationery wholesale, while, as a matter of fact, one letter was so written. If it was reproduced later, it was not my doing. I dictate as many as 100 letters a day. In fact it is said in Ottawa that I have the heaviest mail of any member of Parliament, and that is because of the importance of my constituency and its distance from Ottawa. If Cromie (the publisher of The Sun) or anyone else thinks I am going to sit down and draw a fine line between what paper is used for letters that I dictate, which may be more or less of a personal nature, and those on public business I'll tell him that I am not going to do it.

Mr. Stevens does not give the public credit for having much intelligence when he tries to make a point that only "one letter was so written." From one photograph of that one letter a reproducing cut could be made and many others follow through the printing press. That one letter was as bad as a thousand.

MUSSOLINI'S OUTBURST

IT WILL NOT DO PREMIER MUSSOLINI any good to shake his fist in the face of other nations because every now and then somebody tries to put an end to his political and mortal career. His outburst after the attack upon him on Saturday, no doubt natural under such highly provocative circumstances, seemed to include a charge that in some extraordinary fashion France was behind Giovanni's plot because he had lately returned to Italy from Paris.

If Mussolini comes to a violent end it is quite likely that the arrangements for his "suppression" will have been made in some foreign country, because those who wish to terminate him and his policies find it better for their health to be outside his sphere of influence. But he would only be laughed at if he should make faces at Great Britain because a plot against him had been hatched in Whitechapel. He must know now, moreover, that every time he increases his defiance of the rights of the people he issues another invitation to some anti-Fascist zealot to take a shot at him. It is as certain as night following day that he will go out through the agency of a bullet or a stiletto unless he changes his methods. He has had three reminders of this within a year.

O'HALLORAN FOR NANAIMO

IN SENDING MR. C. H. O'HALLORAN AS their representative to Ottawa the electors of the Nanaimo riding will make no mistake. He is thoroughly familiar with Canadian affairs in general and intimately acquainted with the special needs of the constituency he hopes to serve in the House of Commons. Throughout the campaign he has shown his mettle by dealing with the issues before the public in a constructive manner. Mr. Dickie has had experience at Ottawa; but his platform is the platform of the Conservative Party, and the Conservative Party always has permitted itself to be dictated to by a small group in the East which is opposed to western expansion for selfish reasons. Mr. Dickie is under no delusion about this. He can not alter the situation. He knows in his heart of hearts that a Conservative Government at Ottawa is inimical to the interests of Vancouver Island and British Columbia. But with Mr. O'Halloran as the riding's representative in a Parliament controlled by the Liberal Party the situation would be reversed. It is a question of policy.

EVERY VOTER SHOULD VOTE

THE NATURE OF THE ISSUES TO BE decided at the polls to-morrow should bring every voter out and result in a definite expression of opinion. No voter should take the view that his vote will not make any difference. Too many are governed by this unfortunate idea. Yet one vote may or may not change the whole result.

The franchise is a priceless possession and should be treated much more seriously than is often the case. Much blood was spilled to obtain it. But this is only one of the many reasons why it is the duty of everybody who is qualified to cast a ballot to-morrow. The man or woman who is permitted to do so and does not vote has no right to complain if the government that is elected does not come up to his or her expectation.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

MOSTLY A NATIVE

When a train out west stopped at a small station a passenger got out on the platform and accosted a man who was whittling a stick. "Are you," he asked, "a native of this place?" "Mostly," the man replied. "How do you mean—mostly? Either you are or you aren't." The whittler looked up and shook his head. "Nothing is ever as simple as that," he said. "You see when I came here I weighed forty pounds and now I weigh 110, so you see mostly I'm a native."

A THOUGHT

The race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong.—Ecc. ix, 11.
A victory won over self is the only victory acceptable to God.—Charles Noel Douglas.

Do You Mean What You Say?

The Register and Tribune Syndicate, Des Moines

"Make tracks" means, in the language of the west, "beat it" or "move on." It was originally a far western expression, referring to "squatters" deserting their claim and setting out for unknown regions. The "tracks" he left not only indicated his departure, but also the speed with which he moved.

Canadian Questions and Answers

CAPTAIN VANCOUVER

Q. Who was Captain Vancouver?
A. Captain Vancouver was an English explorer, who discovered Vancouver Island which carries his name. His grave is in the village of Petersham, Surrey, England, where he was buried on May 18, 1798. There was recently planted around his grave seeds of Douglas Fir and other British Columbia trees that his last resting place may carry this testimony from the great-Pacific Island of his discovery.

NEW BRUNSWICK POWER PLANT

Q. What is New Brunswick Power Plant?
A. One of the largest water power development plants in New Brunswick is under way at Grand Falls on the St. John River, the harnessing of which will, it is estimated, call for an expenditure from $25,000,000 to $40,000,000, in connection with the big pulp and paper industry of the International Paper Company.

A Star at Results

By R. J. DEACHMAN

Sir John Willson has been out in the West, sipping up things political. His story of prospects brought no balm to Tory wounds. Sir John is a Tory to the Tories, a Morning Post type of die-hard, who believes in God-given right of Toryism to rule, and believes, even more strongly, in the right of the high tariff mandarins to exploit the commons, but they were Toryism events that have happened in the West and the burden of his message is "There is no hope for Toryism here unless it changes its coming down to the East has caused chills to chase themselves up and down the Tory spine. There was not much hope in them at best, but they were always willing to keep on kidding the troops. The fact is that the situation never looked worse for Toryism in the Dominion of Canada than it does today.

THE REASONS

Nor are the reasons hard to find. Arthur Meighen went to the country last year with a gospel of defeat. He sold defeat to the Canadian people, and sold it in abundant measure. He actually persuaded many people that tariffs would be a benefit to them. At heart the people did not want tariffs, but they were worn out by the slow reconstructive process closely following the war. The average man has not followed closely events that have happened in other countries. He was unaware of the fact that progress following the war must necessarily be something of slow growth. They were, therefore, in the mood to receive the funeral dirges of Mr. Meighen. But that day has passed; conditions in Canada today are undoubtedly better than they are in the United States; the highest authorities now concede that the United States has passed the crest of the wave. Far as prosperity is concerned, the move is the other way. Canada, on the other hand, is just reaching into its stride, and the burdens placed upon it by the war and by Toryism, now moves forward to an era of surpassing prosperity.

THE CHANGES

Every indication from the Maritime Province points to substantial Liberal gains. The Liberals in the last election were hampered by long existing Liberal governments in the Province. The Tory government had taken their place, and these governments had promised much. They told the people that the fish catch would be greater and the market more abundant; that the roads would be improved, worn smooth by the feet of returning exiles; that the Gulf stream shifting northward at Tory command would soften the stern rigors of the Winter climate; that rains would be abundant in Summer and crops bountiful, but unfortunately Nature took its course, and nothing would change. And now follows the reaction. The chickens, coming home to roost, are tied with their late hours and riotous conduct; those who were with them are suffering from resulting indigestion; the scenes are changed, and Liberalism stands to gain five or six seats in the Maritime provinces.

I attended a meeting in the Province of Quebec the other day. It was a joint meeting of one of those assemblies in which the French-Canadian people delight. I drifted around the town before the meeting and talked to the people. If that own is any reflection of current feeling in Quebec, there will only be one, or at most, two Tories with heads above the storm after voting day. Quebec is by no means professional, as some people try to assert. The same appeals are used there as are used in Western Canada. They are deeply interested in the constitutional issue. They turn out to political meetings; politics is in the blood of our fellow-citizens of French extraction and it is Liberal policy that appeals to them. Whatever happens on the fourteenth there is no present sign of the slightest break whatever in the Province of Quebec.

OLD ONTARIO

My own guess of the situation is that Ontario will show a marked change. This province is very responsive to altered conditions. Last year the Meighen story took in Ontario; they were convinced that they were being ruined to make a gala holiday for Western Canada. Business conditions were not good, and they felt the shock. But the Robb budget had worked marvels in the Province of Ontario. The stronghold it has on the imagination of the people is shown at every meeting. When the name is mentioned by a Tory in a public meeting the audience applauds. The reduction on the duty of automobiles has been a telling factor. The people, who have been rather stunned by the fact that the industry gives visible evidence of the forward impulse of new conditions. Ontario has been slow to realize the fact that a lowering of the tariff is always a stimulus to industry. It is a matter of easy proof that every reduction of tariff in the history of Canada has been followed by improved conditions. The fact is that no country in the world has suffered more from high tariffs than Canada, and no province more than the Province of Ontario.

The fact is now beginning to sink home, and I anticipate a marked change in the political complexion of this province on September 14. Of course everyone admits the difficulty of guessing the election results. Your hunches are as good a guide as any more sober judgment. The general tone and feeling throughout the country, as reflected here, would seem to indicate a very marked and strong Liberal sweep. How strong it is difficult to tell. I have heard a good many experienced politicians sum it up. I am going to state the estimated result in terms of minimum and maximum. Leaving aside more whistling through the graveyard by way of keeping up courage, and turning to sober estimates from men who have a knowledge of the field, and it may be fairly stated that the lowest estimate of Liberals in the House after the election is given at 118. On the other hand I have heard suggestions of as high as 140. This I do not anticipate. The maximum would appear to be nearer 132. We may take it as a fair guess, therefore, that on the morning of September 15, leaving out Progressives, Labor, Fusionists and others of dissenting nature, the Liberal party will be in much more complete control of the House than it has been during the past year. That is the situation as it appears to me, record the guess for what it is worth.

"CONSERVATIVE TACTICS"

To the Editor:—In connection with the opening of the Canadian Legion's new quarters, which took place last Saturday afternoon, I would like to question certain procedure regarding same.

Does it not appear strange that General Sir Percy Lake should touch upon the question of the forthcoming election? Was it necessary? especially in view of the non-political clause in their constitution. Was it not also strange that at the conclusion of Sir Percy's speech, Dr. Tolmie's campaign manager, Major Lyons, should march Dr. Tolmie up to the platform with such pomp and vanity, amidst some applause, while Capt. Carew Martin, the popular Liberal candidate was noticeably sitting among the audience.

I might state that Capt. Martin was called to the platform after he had left the scene apparently disgraced with this part of the proceedings.

I would point out that many comments are being made in this connection. It would remind those who arranged all this ceremony that lookers, including veterans of other organizations, and many unconnected persons, of the city and district, did not allow anything to escape their notice, and it is certain that many of those present who had come to cast their ballots for Dr. Tolmie, will now change their views on election day, and vote for Carew Martin, who plays the game fairly.

DRAIN OF HARVEST EXHAUSTING LABOR SUPPLIES OF B.C.

British Columbia's labor supplies have been drained seriously by the movement of harvesters to the prairies, according to officials of the Employment Service. The Province, they stated today, cannot afford to send any further large consignments of men to work in the grain harvest.

Low railway rates for harvesters ceased on August 31 and the Labor Department has indicated its opposition to the revival of these attractive rates for a few weeks more. It is feared that if any large number of men are lured to the prairies this Province will suffer from a labor shortage. As a result of this opposition, the low rates are not being revived.

Altogether this Province has sent some 7,000 men to the harvest, as against 10,000 last year. Improved conditions here make it impossible to repeat last year's contribution of labor and this year's total surpassed all expectations, threatening some industries with lack of men.

The Charm of ANTIQUES

Apart from all question of antiquity, there's an intangible charm about old furniture. You may like Sheraton better than Queen Anne, you may adore old oak and despise mahogany, you may prefer walnut to either. But you'll recognize that each has its special fascination—the quaint designs, the inimitable mellow tints of old and much polished wood. For such reasons you'll love to mingle antiques with your comfortable modern furniture, even though you have no modish craze for collecting. So we would remind you our Studio of Interior Decoration possesses some very fine examples of Old Oak, Queen Anne and 18th Century Furniture.

WHAT ONE CAN DO ABOUT STAMMERING

Mrs. T. Y. B. writes: "What can I do to help my six-year-old boy overcome the habit of stuttering? He has only begun to do this recently and I thought I make him stop when he starts to stammer and start all over again, there are times when he can hardly talk. He has difficulty with the "t" and "g" sounds, though there are times when he seems to stutter over almost any word. What would you advise me to do?"

ANSWER

ANSWER

The principle is helping a child to overcome the habit of stuttering lies in trying to discover how the habit began. If a boy hasn't stuttered until just recently there must be some cause for it just now which didn't exist previous to this time. Is he, right now, up to normal weight? Is he up to his grade in school and does he look forward to school with pleasure? Are you by any chance forcing him to use his right hand when it seems more natural for him to use his left one? This is sometimes the cause of stammering.

Has he had any fright or nerve-racking experiences lately? If, some times happens that older children frighten small boys by threatening them with punishment and so everything which reminds the small boy of his tormentors, even the letter of the name, would lead to the stutters and stammers when he tries to say these letters. Perhaps the child has been frightened by some animal. There is always some nervous origin when stammering begins out of a clear sky, as it would be the mother's duty to find out whether it and remove the cause of the fright, whether it be playmates or animals.

There is one other cause which may cause persistent stammering and that is when the small victim is doing it in unconscious imitation of some one else. It is easy enough to imitate a stammerer, and at first it is great fun. Then the imitator finds himself stuttering over words, and soon, because it causes so much attention and worry, he continues to do it until the habit becomes so fixed that it is a real task to break himself of it.

The mother needs to have sympathy and understanding and if she feels that the child is imitating someone, the best method is to entirely ignore the stuttering, so that it will die from malnutrition. It is so easy for habits to flourish in the lime light, and die quickly from inattention.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH
SCENE OF WEDDING

Miss Ruby Winnifred Wilkinson and Mr. George Henry
Higgs Married Saturday

St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday afternoon, when Ruby Winnifred, the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wilkenson, 2108 Central Avenue, became the bride of Mr. George Henry Higgs, the youngest son of Mr. James Higgs and late Mrs. J. H. Higgs, of Vancouver, B.C. The church was tastefully decorated by friends of the bride, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. R. H. Jones, pastor of the church. The bride entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. John Harris of Vancouver, who gave her in marriage, and was escorted by her brother, Mr. James Higgs, who acted as ring bearer, and the organist of the church. The bride looked pretty and girlish in her suit of fawn-colored Kashmir cloth with hat on shoulders and a pink neck piece. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and white carnations, and was attended by her only sister, Mrs. J. H. Higgs, who carried a bouquet in shot taffeta and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations and blue delphiniums. She also wore the gift of the bride, a diamond necklace of pearls and diamonds. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. James Higgs of Vancouver. After the ceremony a reception party was given at the bride's residence.

home of the bride's mother, where a buffet luncheon was served. The table was prettily decorated with streamers and flowers in pastel shades, and centered with a three-tier wedding cake encircled with white tulle. The wedding was very quiet, owing to the very early hour. Later Mr. and Mrs. Higgs left for Seattle and the Sound cities, and on returning will make their future home at Central Park.

Guests included Mrs. J. Tunstall, Mrs. J. Harris, Mrs. T. Little of Nainaimo, Mr. J. Higgs Sr., Mr. and Mrs. J. Higgs Jr., Mr. Harris and Mr. and Mrs. W. McNeill, all of Vancouver.

St. Alban's Guild—The St. Alban's Ladies' Guild will resume their meetings on Thursday, September 16.

Organization of Association
Now Completed; Festival
Next Spring

About two months ago a number of musical and dramatic enthusiasts held a meeting and decided to hold a musical festival in Victoria next Spring. Victorians having contributed to much of the success of the B.C. Musical Festival at Vancouver since its inauguration, and by the way, taking a large slice of the prizes, it was considered that Victoria should have its own festival.

Prominently identified with the movement were the following noted musicians and elocutionists: Mrs. W. A. Jameson, Miss Ord, Mrs. W. H. Radbourne, Mrs. J. O. Cameron, Mrs. A. R. Walsh, Jackson Hanby, Fred King, Major Bullock-Webster, F. T. C. Wickett, Geo. Dyke, Dr. Hodgson, Mr. Holdcroft, J. Douglas Macey, J. G. Brown and others.

The provisional executive under the direction of J. G. Brown has worked hard during the last two months and has prepared a syllabus of the various competitions and also a set of regulations for the competitions. They have been in communication with noted persons for adjudicators. The prize committee have been very fortunate and successful to date in having trophies in the shape of shields, cups, etc., from business firms in the city, private individuals and fraternal organizations. The provisional committee met with enthusiastic approval of the idea.

The draft of the by-laws and constitution of the association was then prepared and submitted to a meeting of those interested held on Saturday evening in the Victoria Hall Campbell Building. Reports of the various committees were received and approved and all actions taken by the committees endorsed.

The constitution and by-laws were drafted with one exception were adopted, the exception being an addition of three words to the object of the association. The syllabus, as prepared by the provincial executive was also adopted with some additions and amendments, as was also the regulations governing the competitions.

Officers and directors under the new constitution were elected as follows:

President, J. G. Brown; first vice president, Geo. Jay; second vice president, J. C. M. Keith; third vice president, H. A. Backwith; treasurer, Mrs. J. O. Cameron; recording secretary, Mrs. A. R. Walsh; corresponding secretary, Mr. Holdcroft; directors, Mrs. W. A. Jameson, Mr.

St. Joseph's W.A. Resumes Its Work

Gault, treasurer; and the annual bazaar that will be held at the hospital on November 2.

Mrs. A. M. Pillar, convener of the social committee, reported that during the months of June and July the following articles had been made by the auxiliary: Drains, 65; operant dressings, 70; baby gowns, 44; diapers made and marked, 44; sponges, $88; large sponges, 25; crutches, 10; draw-sheets, 13; binders, 10; rubber sheets, 10; rubber pneumonia jackets, 2; baby's gowns, 6; maternity gowns, 6; surgeon's gowns, 22; infant's gowns, 2; surgeons' aprons, 2; rubber sheet Hospital, 9; making a total of 1,158 pieces completed.

HUDSON'S BAY FUR BRIGADE PASSING DOWN THE OKANAGAN

THE progress of the Hudson's Bay Fur Brigade, down the old trail on the west bank of Okanagan Lake, and so on to the south, was an event of importance. Indians were employed as packers, each being responsible for from eight to ten animals. A "boss" packer directed each section, consisting of about sixty animals. Behind one of these sections rode the factor, clerks and such others as were permitted to join the brigade. On approaching a fort the factor donned his blue coat and top hat—costing forty shillings—and rode in state. Absolute autocrat, his word was law. The possession of a discarded plug hat by a native was rewarded as distinction de luxe.

Just as the plug hat was then symbolic of autocratic power, so the familiar 4X symbol today marks those delicious bakery products as "autocrats of the breakfast table"—whose superiority is an established and undisputed fact in 50,000 B. C. homes.

KES • COOKIES • MACAROONS • ROLLS

THE occasional Brown Loaf is a great favorite in many homes and adds further variety to the daily fare besides being preferred by many for BROWN BREAD reason of its high nutritive value. Few people, however, realize the necessity of specifying the exact "Brown" Loaf they need. Shelly's "Cracked Wheat" Loaf has a white flour and bran base, besides a generous proportion of the finest cracked wheat. This combination brings out the full value of the wheat and places this loaf among Breads of the "Health Food" variety, although preferred by many simply for its delightfully "different" flavor. Shelly's also make a "Graham Loaf" that is much in demand, a "4X Rye" Loaf and a "Boston Brown," all of which are used steadily by hundreds of Shelly's customers. But perhaps no bread of the "brown" class ranks as high as Shelly's "All o' the Wheat"—a guaranteed 100% whole wheat loaf—which is described more fully in our next editorial.

Spiritual Loyalty

Sermon Delivered by the Rev. John Carol Perkins, D.D. (of the University Unitarian Church, Seattle) at the Unitarian Church Victoria

Romans viii: 6—"To be carnally-minded is death, but to be spiritually-minded is life and peace."

"Spiritually-minded" is the keyword here: and "carnally-minded," while meaning many things, is a merely negative word, and means in particular, not spiritually-minded. "To be spiritually-minded is life and peace."

The very patent purpose of education and especially of religious education, is to rescue the universal qualities and principles of human nature from the prejudice and the misunderstanding with which they so readily become involved, and obscured. And all people who are often classed so popularly as either progressive or conservative, are alike neither of them free from many crucial errors.

Religion has the task of correcting all errors both ways for human nature under like conditions is strangely just about the same. Of course, the errors may be of a different kind. But in all cases they are equally fundamental. People have been taught in general that religion and a genuine knowledge of God are primarily matters of definite doctrine and intellectual belief. And this principle is insisted upon by many through every stage of misinterpretation, what we call dogmatic to what we call liberal, being very hard and stiff at one end of the process, and becoming always more lenient and gentle at the other end of the process. But at any point where new light suddenly dawns, there is always a first tendency to build up an wholly new series of misunderstandings and misinterpretations. For the commonest fault of people, who might otherwise be in sympathy, lies always in the half-truths and the half-prejudices with which so many become quickly equipped.

Now religion is alone discovered, and cultivated at the heart of a few great permanent, underlying and universal principles of life itself. They are like the constant factors in certain mathematical problems. To finally know them and their full, true value is the object of religious thought and worship.

The part of a person's character that has to do with religion and the church is called by definite series of names:—On the one hand, the individual soul, the conscience, the instinct of personal righteousness and love of truth; and on the other hand, there are the elements of association, the love of corporate action, fellowship, brotherhood, communion and peace. Now, religion involves those personal experiences by which we and I become convinced that we belong to each other and together belong to God. These are the experiences by which there is aroused in our hearts every emotion of devotion, consecration, honor, loyalty, experiences, too, by which we become deeply stirred before the majesty of fellowship and union and co-operation—all of which when properly directed and educated becomes the glory, the beauty, and the final hope of all the world.

Unless you know the thrills of what spiritual loyalty means; unless you have every day, moment by moment, consecration to the spiritual welfare of yourselves and of those around you; unless you are inspired to make all the world far holier than you yourselves have had the miraculous privilege of having lived in it—why, you may live longer than the fabled Methuselah, and yet you cannot achieve one jot or tittle of reality in such a life as ours. But when you do have great spiritual emotions that touch deeply your heart and your imagination; when you do yield your life to them and persist forever in their service, you at least are on the way that leads to that peace and power, and glory, which the church, religion and religious worship down the centuries have tried to make effective in the history of our race.

Now, the only way to make these wondrous virtues real is to persist in knowing them and interpreting them on their spiritual side, the side that makes for beauty, goodness, truth and peace and love, in short—what we faintly would call God's will. Too often in the history of the church, words and names are kept, while the spirit gets sadly lost. The peculiar task of a religious worship is to keep the spirit from ever getting lost; inspiring us to pull ourselves together, as we say, from time to time, and finding out if we still have spiritual hold of life, or only a formal, artificial, purposeless hold on life.

True progress, growth, freedom are found only in the spiritual quality of religious thought and life. You are not spiritually-minded merely because you hold new or different opinions from others simply because you have come to fresh and changed ideas of God and Christ and the Bible and the church. You are not spiritually-minded just because you have come to see the fruitless faults of another church, or another age or another sect. A free, spiritual religion is not a wanderer, a vagrant. To be spiritual, there must be something positive, vital, life-giving, hope-producing and faith-establishing. That is, religion to the true, must be what we call the permanent spiritualizing element of the mind and heart. It is no mere sojourner in the realm of light, but a loyal inhabitant, to bear the natural burdens and enjoy the privileges of a contented citizenship. Genuine and true religious people, no matter what formalities they have cherished, or what professions they have made, are they who love first and with a consuming love the actual spirit and ways of worship and keep their minds free from the temper of controversy and estranging debates; but who enjoy the pure worship and service of men.

The early Christians—or some of them—knew well these truths and gave expression to them. And the records make Christ say: "Not everyone that sayeth unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into God's kingdom, but only he that doeth the will of my Father, who is in heaven." It seems to me that the true history of this spiritual ideal of a church has yet to be well written and described in the literature of the world. Too much that passes current as religious history is far away from its loftier meaning. This is the vast tragedy of religion and the church that in so many greatly absorbing debates and controversies, too often the actual character of a spiritual religion gets altogether lost on either side and life is sadly blocked.

In most books of church history, certain quite striking errors are made to stand out as popular landmarks. There are crucial periods, so called, exciting moments men like to write and talk about. There is the first great general council of the church, known as the Nicene Council, when the followers of Arius and the followers of Athanasius opposed each other so bitterly in the year 325. Then there is the controversy over images in the church, in the eighth century, the traditionally known iconoclastic agitation, a controversy that worked largely to finally separate the Eastern Church from the Western Church. Or, there is the discussion over transubstantiation, the Eucharist or Lord's Supper, a controversy that forever divided European Protestants. And in our day how great is the agitation over scientific problems that consumes so much fuel on a wasted fire; wasted, that is, so far as spiritual religion is concerned.

The ancient Nicene difference was over the problems of whether Christ was God, or only a being like God. It was a purely speculative problem. It had nothing to do with spiritual matters either way. It was not a religious question even, and involved nothing of the spiritual life and love and peace and holiness that mean religion for the heart.

But the antagonisms aroused, the hostilities developed, the enmities stirred up in the excited processes, made that part of early church history a barren waste, which it took centuries of quiet devotion and love and communion in isolated local fellowship to save the church from perfect failure and degradation. And after all the only religious history worth preserving is just this history of these patient, righteous, holy, simple fellowships, that alone save us from civilization's slide. So it is at long controversy over images in churches, that aroused so many bitter feelings and lasted many centuries, that images, or pictures, or pictures, have nothing to do with religion either way. They belong only to the realm of art. If people are dull and insensitive they hate and hate and hate pictures, images, any other works of beauty in a church. If they are lovers of art, they can tolerate anything that adds high charm, suggestion, inspiration, to their religion. The Puritan's tirade against church ornaments and architecture was never to their religious credit. What religion they had was in spite of their barren artistic minds. It is no part of education or religion to denounce beauty. And every Puritanical limitation of the church was a check, not a gain, for religion and the church. So the Protestant controversy over the Eucharist, the Lord's Supper, the transubstantiation or the consubstantiation problem, was a total loss to religion either way, simply because neither theory has anything to do with character, or the religious spirit, or the real concern of a true church.

When I was a divinity school student, I had the good fortune to live for some months at Marburg in Germany, in that castle, high on a hill above the city, called Marburg Castle. And it was here that the Protestant Luther once met the Protestant Meianthman and they quarreled over what the Lord's Supper was and what it meant theoretically to a Christian believer and the Christian church of Germany has remained divided and ecclesiastically antagonistic ever since. And the vivid nearness of this place of controversy magnified for me the absolutely narrow-minded character of such an epoch of European church history. All such discussion is religion's wasted energy, because all is ignorantly and selfishly conceived. Communion with God, with Christ, with men, has nothing to do with any of those artificial, speculative controversies. Can people never learn that Christ taught two thousand years ago, "For whoever shall do the will of God, the same is my brother and my sister and my mother." That is, communion is a spiritual experience. It is a thing of the soul; it is an issue of life and friendship and brotherhood and love.

The purpose of a true church is never to get involved in such controversial issues. It is to keep the spiritual springs pure and the religious thought devout and humble, simple and consecrated to the finer, sweeter life of all the world.

Our age is confronted with what we call a scientific problem. And men line up on one side or another. And one group cries out against another group. Some hold certain opinions and others rise up to contradict them and then they get excited and every kind of confusion follows. And the gentle spirit of religion itself, of course all the faults are not one side only. It takes more than one person to make a quarrel. And they who hold their ancient teaching wrongly are both equally at fault. The churches are at present challenged by the fundamentalists, who cry out against all modernism, all the newly conceived Biblical interpretations; all the hard-earned readjusted views of church, of God, of Christ, and human nature, which have been wrought out against such baffling inertia of the ages. But there are faults on both sides. For while at base all the fundamentalists are doubtless intellectually wrong.

Cincinnati One Game In Rear Of St. Louis

Leaders Idle Yesterday While Reds Took Two Games From Brooklyn, Hargrave's Homer, With Two On in Eighth, Winning Second Game; Pittsburgh Climb Closer to Top by Winning Double-header From New York; Cleveland Pick Off Third Straight Win

New York, Sept. 13.—The St. Louis Cardinals to-day found their grip on the National League crest shaved to a single game and confronted not only with a Cincinnati menace but also a formidable challenge from the world champions, the Pittsburgh Pirates, who refuse to be counted out of the running.

While the blue laws of the state forced idleness on the Cards yesterday, Cincinnati turned out a double victory over Brooklyn by 5-0 and 4-3, and crept to within a full game of the peak. The Reds now have the same number of games to play as the Cards—thirteen, and if Jack Hendricks' team wins the lot, St. Louis must do likewise to become champions.

Pete Donohue let the Robins down with three hits in the shut out, while his mates gathered 13 from the offerings of Dazzy Vance. Hargrave's homer spoiled the day for Brooklyn in the closing battle when it came with one on base in the eighth, producing the tying and winning runs. With only one out in the ninth and two on, Donohue was rushed into the box to relieve Laque and retired two batters to end the game. About 30,000 fans were in attendance at Brooklyn, including Commissioner K. M. Landis and J. A. Heydler, president of the National League.

PIRATES TAKE TWO
Pittsburgh entered upon its invasion of the East yesterday with a double victory over the New York Giants by 5-1 and 7-1, thereby advancing the Pirates to within two and a half games of the league-leading Cardinals.

Home runs featured the opening contest, Kelly breaking a scoreless tie with a circuit blow in the sixth, while Warner knotted the score with another in the seventh. However, two drives in the eighth and ninth netted the visitors four runs to put the game safely away.

Aldridge pitched steadily until the last inning, when he blew up and left the game with the bases full and two out. Bush went in and retired Pinch Hitter Terry for the final out.

In the second game, Meadows pitched perfect ball for six innings, when Frisch beat out an infield hit. New York's lone run was the result of Meusel's triple and Tyson's single in the eighth.

Yesterday's results were:

New York, Sept. 13.—Cleveland at home made it three straight yesterday, winning 14-4 from Washington in a game played in the mud, pelted by rain and finished in semi-darkness. Washington played erratically in the field, while Marberry, starting pitcher, was hit very hard. Leaven was fairly effective throughout and was brilliantly supported.

Speaker and Burns had perfect days at bat, Speaker having a single, two doubles and a triple, while Burns had two singles and two doubles, his sixty-second and sixty-third, respectively, of the season.

Boston and the Browns at St. Louis split a double bill, the Red Sox taking the first 11-2 and the Browns handing them a 1-0 shut out in the second. Tobin's homer in the sixth inning of the first game, with three on, featured the opening game.

Travelers Find Williams Tough; Lose To Sidney

Ace-high Twirler of Commercial League Hold Seniors in Check; Score 7-3

Williams, stocky hurler of the Sidney baseball squad, champions of the Commercial League, was too hard a nut for the Travelers, senior league champs, to crack at the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday and the samplings absorbed a 7-3 beating. Although touched for eleven safe blows, Williams was only up against it on a couple of occasions and, in the main, kept the hits well scattered. Sidney bunched hits in the third to score four of their runs. They were usually able to connect with the offerings of Webster, the Traveler's moundman, and put their blows where they did the most damage.

Paul, who roams the left field garden for Sidney, did a Babe Ruth stunt for Sidney's first run, lifting the apple over the fence in the second inning.

PAAVO NURMI

Berlin, Sept. 13.—Running two miles yesterday in nine minutes, one and two-fifths seconds, Emil Wide, of Sweden; not only settled old scores with Paavo Nurmi, of Finland, whom he outdistanced by a score of three seconds, but also established a new world record. Nurmi, too, outdid himself, also beating the previous world's record by covering the distance in nine minutes and five seconds.

Berlin, Sept. 13.—Three marvelous distance runners finished a race here on Saturday so close that less than two seconds marked their finish. Dr. Otto Pelzer, the German crack, took the 1500-meter race at the Charlottenburg Sport Club. Emil Wide, of Sweden, second, and Paavo Nurmi, of Finland, was third.

More than 25,000 German spectators were frantic when Pelzer was announced the winner. The national anthem was sung in a mighty chorus. As the crowd carried the champion on their shoulders to his dressing room an aeroplane swooping to within fifty feet of the ground dropped a garland of roses accurately on Pelzer's shoulders.

At the beginning of the race Nurmi took the lead with his characteristic stride. Wide running second and Pelzer third. This order was kept for almost half the race, when Nurmi fell back to third and in that order they continued until the last fifty yards, when Pelzer with an unexpected lightning spurt bounded to the front and breasted the tape a yard or so ahead of Wide.

Nurmi's trainer said after the race that the runner had not expected such opposition and had not timed himself correctly.

Toronto Leafs Make Sure of Pennant in International Loop

New York, Sept. 13.—Playing at Buffalo, the Toronto Leafs of the International Hockey League, made sure of the pennant by defeating Buffalo in both of a double-header, 9 to 8 and 4 to 0. Fisher, former Buffalo player, scored the winning goal.

At the beginning of the second contest and set them down with a single hit in six innings before darkness halted the proceedings.

This brings to an end the long run of successes of the Baltimore Orioles. They won the pennant for seven consecutive years.

Makes Hole in One After Only Playing For Three Months

G. R. Fleming jumped in among the select of the Hole-in-One Club yesterday when he sent his ball high over the tee at the ninth hole at the Macaulay Country Club and had the satisfaction of finding it in the hole when he reached the green. Mr. Fleming was playing in a foursome with Art Stokes, A. D. McFadden and P. House. Mr. Fleming has only been playing golf for three months.

YANKS, CARDS AND DEMPSEY FAVORED TO WIN FIXTURES

New York, Sept. 13.—Odds of 11 to 10 on the New York Yankees to win the world's series were offered yesterday in a Wall Street wager which placed $6,500 against $5,000. The St. Louis Cardinals were quoted as 9 to 5 favorites to nose out the Reds, Pirates and Cubs in the final lap of the National League race.

Several large bets also were made on the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight battle, with the champion ruling an 11 to 8 choice. A wager of $5,000 against $75,000 that Dempsey will score a knockout in the first round was announced by one firm.

Dempsey Nearly Down In Workout With New Partner, T. Loughran

Champ Given Furious Workout; Tunney Attracts Record Crowd

Atlantic City, N.J., Sept. 13.—Tommy Loughran, 175-pound dynamo from Philadelphia, on Saturday gave Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, the most aggressive workout Dempsey has experienced since he started training for his title contest against Gene Tunney.

On September 25 the scheduled fight between the two champions was expected to take place at the Philadelphia Sports Club. Dempsey apparently did not enjoy the spectacle of being on the receiving end. Twice he crowded Loughran into the ropes, cutting loose with a flurry of punches as if he was fighting in earnest.

After the second round, Dempsey off balance as he was coming in and the champion sprawled into the ropes, nearly falling down. Dempsey, however, got even for this trick by backing Loughran up a few seconds later Loughran jerked Dempsey off balance as he was coming in and the champion sprawled into the ropes, nearly falling down.

PRaises DEMPSEY
As the round ended, Dempsey crowded the Philadelphia into a corner and nailed him on the chin with a left hook. It looked as if Loughran was going to crumble, but he survived the furious exchange.

Loughran, who fought eight close rounds with Tunney, praised Dempsey's showing. "He showed a champion was punching sharply, hard and often."

After the two rounds with Loughran, Dempsey started a round with Charley Anderson, winding up with Mike Arnold.

Both of the heavyweight received a battering, the body of the champion was punched sharply, hard and often.

Stroudsburg, Pa., Sept. 13.—Before a crowd of 1,000, a new state record for his training period, Gene Tunney boxed four fast rounds on Saturday, following out his program of training for the championship fight with Jack Dempsey.

Billy Vidaback and Harold Mays watched the opposition, evenly divided between the two. The challenger was in his best form. He was hitting hard and his footwork was going strong.

Harold Mays, who was carrying a young woman visitor swooned. Mays was staggered, but did not fall, and suffered less than the crowd, who was carried into the clubhouse, and after some minutes, restored to consciousness.

PRESENTED WITH ROBE
The Pennsylvania state department of the American Legion played in opposition to Legionnaire Tunney on Saturday. At the time Major-General John L. Loebe was invited to present a bathrobe to Tunney, a gift from the 18,000 marines at home and abroad, ashore and afloat, he was engaged in boxing a prize.

The gown, a magnificent exhibit of the art of tailoring bathrobes, will be worn by Tunney in the ring at Philadelphia, September 23. It was made of the dark blue of the marine blouse, piped with red and lined with officer's silk of crimson. The globe and anchor of the marine corps was worked in gold across the shoulders.

After the legion parade, General Loebe motored to the Glenbrook Golf Club and presented the lounge robe to Tunney.

Coaffee Runs Fast
Toronto, Sept. 13.—Fifteen thousand persons crowded the stands at the Canadian National Exhibition international sports Saturday and saw Cyril Coaffee, Illinois A. C. sprinter, former winner of the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds, Har-Old Osborne, Olympic Star, gave an exhibition of his high jumping and Phil-Phil Hamilton, Walker, started from scratch and won the two-mile handicap walk by 20 yards in 14 minutes and 20 seconds.

Local Golfer Ties For Second Place In Jasper Tourney
A. Straith Second in Handicap Match Against Par; J. R. Waghorn Wins

Jasper, Alta., Sept. 12.—J. R. Waghorn, of the Shaughnessy Heights Golf Club, Vancouver, proved the first trophy winner in the Jasper Park golf week, having won the handicap match against par in which he was only five down to the 70 which has been set as the standard for this beautiful course.

Behind Mr. Waghorn there followed a long list of international in character, including former Canadian amateur champions, who learned that the scientific manner in which Jasper has been trapped is deadly to any deviation from the direct line. For second place in this event four players were each a stroke behind the winner. They will play off. They are C. C. Ronalds, Montreal, V. G. Gardy, Montreal, J. Taylor, Jasper, Park and Alex. D. Strath, Victoria. On the heels of these four, yet a stroke away, were two noted Canadian amateurs, Alec Wilson, Montreal, and R. C. H. Cassels, Toronto.

In the women's putting competition, the other event of the opening day, Mrs. M. H. Stuart, Edmonton, won, with Mrs. Edith Munro, Vancouver, second.

The Jasper Park Lodge tournament was officially opened by His Honor Lieut.-Governor William Egbert, of Alberta, who drove straight and true from the first tee, and as the ball rolled along the fairway one of Jasper's famous bears ambled out of the woods lining the left boundary to see what it was all about and then dashed off when greeted by a cheer from the gallery.

Spurs Save Defeat By Goal Just At Whistle

Forty-five Thousand Fans Treated to Sensational Game When Goals Came Fast and Huddersfield Held to Draw; Burnley Continues as Surprise of Season by Defeating Bolton; Liverpool Bundles to Second Place With Fine Win

London, Sept. 13.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Forty thousand fans assembled at Whitehart Lane Saturday saw one of the most sensational encounters in the First Division of the English soccer league, when Tottenham Hotspurs and Huddersfield Town played to a three-all draw. The league champions had held the Spurs scoreless throughout the first half and for a great part of the second, when they let loose and in two minutes had rammed in a couple of counters.

The ball had scarcely been set in motion after the second goal when the Spurs found the net and immediately after came the equalizer. The astounded crowd had quickly recovered from this lightning-quick scoring when Huddersfield returned and shot in their third goal.

The situation looked blue for Tottenham, but just as the referee put his whistle into his mouth to sound for the close of the game the ball crashed past the Huddersfield goalkeeper and the contest wound up 3-3.

GOOD CROWDS AT GAMES
Large attendances and heavy scoring featured league games on Saturday.

Thirty-five thousand enthusiastic supporters saw Liverpool scramble into second place in the race on the shoulders of Sheffield United. Hopelessly outclassed from the beginning of the game the Blades were completely avast, securing but one of the six goals that were scored.

A similar number of fans were drawn to the game at Birmingham, where the home team blanketed Sunderland by a couple of goals.

The sensation of the English League continues to be Burnley, and they ran true to form by taking the points from Bolton Wanderers by the odd goal in seven.

The London district came out of their first-string contests with no great honor. The best that could be done at Highbury was a two-two draw, Leicester City holding Arsenal throughout the game and eventually came out of it at the big end of a 5-1 score.

Much-needed points were garnered by The Wednesday at Sheffield, when they blanketed Everton by a quartette of goals.

No fewer than ten goals were scored at Burnley, where the local side out of the contest with West Bromwich four goals to the good.

ANOTHER SENSATION
Another sensation was sprung at Stamford Bridge, in the Second Division, when Southampton effected the dethronement of Chelsea, with Rawlings doing in one minute what four other teams had failed to do in six hours, and they left 1-0.

Manchester City gained their points by a narrow margin over Blackpool, while Oldham Athletics won by the only goal in the game at Ford City.

Glasgow, Sept. 13.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The two teams that had been in their position at the top of the First Division of the Scottish League Saturday when they divided the points with City of Dunde, went into the same time Dundee went into the leadership when they defeated Airdrieonians. Dundee's place is due to a slight advantage in goal averages, the aggregate pointage of the teams being the same.

LAWN BOWLING
Exactly one hundred entries were received for the lawn bowling tournament on Saturday, of whom 96 faced the match on the green. The tournament was played on the Victoria greens, the Burnside Club being the beneficiary.

Alec McKeachie and George Vallance were the favorites for the arrangements ably supported by every member of the sub-committee. The Burnside ladies provided refreshments.

Reeve Robert Macnicol made an excellent speech as hon. president of the Burnside Club and presented the prizes at the close of the tournament. John Paterson, vice-president of the Victoria Club, responded.

Harry Mills, C. Collings, W. Stewart, A. and Finley won the first prize presented by the Yarrow Athletic Association.

James Rae and Read-Dorrell, M. Smith and W. Little won the prize donated by the Burnside ladies.

The large entry list was self-classified and the draw made from four groups which resulted in making the game exceptionally uncertain.

COLLEEN MOORE TOPS ALL PREVIOUS SUCCESSES IN PRODUCTION AT CAPITOL

Pert, Wistful Air of Dainty Star Fits Admirably Into First National Play, "It Must Be Love"

Topping her other splendid performances in a story full of amusing surprises and human touches, Colleen Moore scores again at the Capitol Theatre in her latest First National production, "It Must Be Love," which opens to-day.

There is a pert, yet wistful, air about this star which fits admirably into such a story as "It Must Be Love." As the misunderstood daughter of a delicatessen merchant Colleen carried every member of the audience with her in many moods. A droop of the mouth, and many mouths drooped in the audience. A twirl on the toe and a birdlike gesture with the pantomime hands, and the audience howled with delight.

showing at the Columbia Theatre to-day.

The photoplay was filmed for the most part in the northern section of mountainous California, where an abandoned dam was rebuilt to stage the huge flood scenes which feature the absorbing narrative written around one of the most appalling disasters of all time—the flooding of the Conemaugh Valley, Pennsylvania, when the city of Johnstown was located.

George O'Brien, hero of "The Iron Horse," "The Man Who Came Back," "Havoc," "The Roughneck" and "Bad Men," is seen in the leading role of a young woodsman. The role offers a new opportunity for the handsome Fox star to display his histrionic talent and winning personality, also on the same bill.

"As funny as a load of hay." This is the latest phrase to be added to American vocabulary and it owes its place in current conversation to Douglas MacLean's development of the comedy possibilities of a load of hay in "That's My Baby," his latest Paramount comedy now playing at the Columbia Theatre.

Election Touch to Musical Comedy at Playhouse This Week

Mrs. Wiggs of Esquimalt Title of Clever Hincks Production

Reg. Hincks presents something new in the way of musical comedy. Mrs. Wiggs (Vivien Combe) was very much in love with Mr. Glue (Harold Bechtel) and he with her, but unfortunately he was a Liberal and she was a Conservative. Naturally, with an election coming on their courtship was not a smooth one.

The three flower girls (Eva Payne, Eleanor Duncalf and Roberta Balm) tried to help things along, but Mrs. MacGregor (George Brydson) ruined everything. However it all ends happily. There is some excellent music in the production as well as some more of George Brydson's ever welcome dances. This production will also introduce to Victoria audiences M. Courtney, who will be heard in tenor songs.

An interesting sequence in J. Stuart Blackton's "The Passionate Quest," the Warner picture at the Playhouse. There all week shows an old-fashioned glass business in the north of England. There is always something medieval about the thought of glass-blowing, something iridescent and fragile.

The wonder of the molten glass blows into fantastic shapes of unbelievable thinness, transparent bubbles which picture the life around them, but with a glow which glorifies the reality, the exotic form the liquid glass takes under the skilled manipulation of the worker, the marvel of craftsmanship that goes into the creation of a glittering bit of crystal—all weave a spell of other days about us.

Fine Farce Comedy "Never Say Die" is Offered at Coliseum

Funny Situations Crowd Production by Gifted Stock Company

"Never Say Die," the late Nat Goodwin's brilliant farce comedy will be the offering at the Coliseum this week. Coliseum patrons were almost unanimous in declaring last week's production the best yet, but the management of the popular Government Street Theatre are confident that this week's play will create even greater enthusiasm.

To tell the whole story would possibly interfere with the patrons' complete enjoyment of the play. Briefly, it concerns a wealthy young American in London, who has been advised by famous specialists that he has only one month to live. On a number of occasions he has endeavored to help financially, a young lady, whom he secretly loves, and his good friend, an artist, to whom the lady is engaged, but without success. On hearing the decision of the specialists, however, he persuades the young lady to marry him, the understanding being, of course, that she will shortly become a widow and then be in a position to marry her artist sweetheart.

The marriage is consummated, the bride leaving the same day on a year's visit to Russia. The artist friend leaves at the same time for Florence to study for a year.

But the best laid schemes of mice and men run oft awry. The second act opens a year later with our hero still hale and hearty, but with many misgivings regarding his marital status. A well-thought-out scheme to compromise himself in the eyes of society, thus allowing his wife grounds for divorce, creates many interesting and hilariously funny situations.

RADIO CLUB TO HOLD SHOW IN CRYSTAL GARDEN

Will Open Three-day Display of Radio Progress Sept. 30

A striking testimonial to the popularity of the Crystal Garden has been contributed by the Victoria Radio Club, which yesterday afternoon decided to switch its Fall Exhibition to the Crystal Garden banquet hall.

The decision to change the locale from Yates Street premises available for the development of popular patronage of the great amusement centre. The executive committee of the Radio Club recalled that the Fall Exhibition of 1925 had been held in the Crystal Garden and had been strongly patronized. In view of the growth of popularity of the gardens through the intervening twelve months, the committee felt satisfied that the Crystal Garden is the logical place for the exhibition.

Manager Ivan Awde is co-operating with the Victoria Radio Club in many ways to increase the adaptability of the banquet hall of the garden, and the executive of the exhibition is satisfied that on September 30 they will have on display one of the finest radio shows held this year in the Pacific Northwest.

"FOXY QUILLER," HIT OF NEW YORK, WILL BE GYRO CLUB'S EFFORT

Comic Opera Will be Played at Royal Victoria Theatre For Three Nights

"Foxy Quiller," one of the greatest hits in New York, is to be presented at the Royal Victoria Theatre on September 30 and October 1 and 2 by the Gyro Club.

When "The Beauty Shop" proved such a tremendous attraction last year the Gyros were confronted with the task of getting something better for their second annual attempt as amateur performers. They instructed C. H. Lewis, their producer, to comb the theatrical highways and byways and not to come around until he had hit upon a show that would outclass "The Beauty Shop."

Mr. Lewis has just returned with the comic opera "Foxy Quiller," which sent New York into raptures of delight and is creating a sensation in Europe.

The play revolves around "Foxy Quiller" who is a detective without a rival on this planet. It is expected that Art Ker, who scored a triumph as Dr. Budd in "The Beauty Shop" will play the part of "Foxy Quiller."

The Gyro Club has secured the assistance of many of the leading singers in Victoria to help them put over the show. Rehearsals commenced this week and the performers will be constantly at work from now until the opening night of the show.

NORMA SHEARER STARS IN "THE WANING SEX" AT DOMINION FOR ONE WEEK

Popular Actress in Delightful Role of Successful Young Woman Lawyer in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture

"The Waning Sex," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture starring Norma Shearer, from the Broadway stage success of the same name by Frederic and Fanny Hatton, which opens at the Dominion Theatre to-day, is a picture exactly suited to the taste and requirements of the discriminating picture-goer.

It is a comedy with a snap and sparkle, an exhilarating, zestful tempo, and it even has plot, not with an artificial heaviness, but well-balanced and interesting.

NAGEL HAS MALE LEAD

Norma Shearer has the role of a successful woman lawyer, while Conrad Nagel, her leading man, is cast as the rising young district attorney who is in love with her. She is really in love with him, but she is a modern-day woman whose inde-

She agrees to marry the district attorney if he beats her in a case in which they are opposed in court. He loses, and then the "other girl" enters the case.

The "other girl," played by Mary McAlister, happens to be a shrewd little schemer, who is determined to snare him as a husband, and her wiles are not easily discounted, when they comprise a "cozy" cottage, a wonderful meal, cushioned couches, shaded lamps, etc., etc.

TRAPPED

It looks like the young district attorney has been well trapped when we find him at the cottage of the other girl in most unconventional garb. But the quick wit and ready action of the heroine save the day.

Side by side with the adult romance of the film marches the puppy love of the young sister and brother of each of the principals.

There isn't a dull second in "The Waning Sex." This film can be safely called one of the brightest, liveliest comedy-dramas that has ever reached the screen. Robert Z. Leonard, the director, has advanced his profession another distinct notch.

SIR PERCY LAKE OPENS CANADIAN LEGION QUARTERS

Addresses Gathering of Ex-Service Men, Urging Unity's Necessity

Thronging to hear General Sir Percy Lake, president of the Dominion Command, over 400 ex-service men, accompanied by their wives and friends, attended the official opening of the new quarters of the Canadian Legion branch of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, Courtney Street, on Saturday afternoon. His Honor Robert Randolph Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, was a guest of honor.

Before actually performing the duty vested in him, the official opening of the new headquarters, Sir Percy told those present of the progress of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League and its prospects for the future.

"All provinces are now organized and commands are now functioning," said Sir Percy. "Requests for outlying branches is a good sign. Sir Percy said, and added that there had been many of these.

"The Headquarters Service Bureau is doing excellent work, but requires strengthening as work is crowding in. Charters especially are giving much work, as well as badges and records of members. One thousand charters will be required, it is thought, while 5,000 badges have already been distributed, and 10,000 more have been ordered. Forty thousand membership cards have already been issued.

"The legion essentially stands for unity because we believe in comradeship, and because unity is strength," Sir Percy went on, amid applause.

TRUE COMRADESHIP

"We believe in true comradeship, and so, specially welcome fraternal representatives to-day. We have goodwill for all real working organizations helping all comrades. We hope all will eventually join but anyhow we will wish them well," said Sir Percy.

Dealing with the topic of unity, Sir Percy said that ex-service men, in their fight for pensions had learned the value of organization. They had been ignored in many instances, when, if their requests had come booming out of the throats of masses, out of a revived army of thousands who once wore the King's uniform, they would have carried greater strength and won their fight.

"If we were all united, does anyone believe we could be so ignored?" Sir Percy asked.

"We are in the throes of a general election. Interested wire-pullers are whispering that the legion will take sides. That is quite untrue. The legion is non-partisan and has no party connection. It has no politics, but it has a policy, and that policy is the welfare of Canada and fair play for the ex-service men and women. Our action will never be sectional nor for one class only, but well thought out for the good of all—duties as well as interests.

"If asked to vote, I should say every man must vote according to his conscience for the general good of his country. The legion has only a policy—Canada and the Empire first, party spirit nowhere. Again, I say, every one must vote according to his conscience."

LEAGUE'S PROTOTYPE

Asserting that the Canadian Legion was nothing more nor less than a prototype of the League of Nations, His Honor Robert Randolph Bruce paid tribute to the men who were organizing the great body of returned men in Canada and throughout the British Empire. It was their spirit which he needed, he said, now as in times of war, and leaders such as Sir Percy Lake. He complimented the legion on its election of so brilliant a soldier as Sir Percy to the post of president of the Dominion Command.

Colonel Robertson and Despard Twigg moved and seconded, respectively, a vote of thanks to Sir Percy and His Honor for the part they played in the ceremony. Tea was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary and visitors were shown the quarters after its conclusion.

J. J. Matheson was the afternoon's soloist.

In the evening members and friends enjoyed a smoke and musical programme in the club rooms.

"I daresay they are easy of explanation. Both Miss Moore and myself fingered that bottle when Mrs. Heath was showing it to us."

"Yes, and after that, Mrs. Heath polished it clean with her delicate handkerchief, leaving no marks on it of any sort."

"Oh, I don't know. We must have picked it up again, Miss Moore and I, after that. You know how idly, even unconsciously one picks up objects that are lying about."

"Yes, but there are only the prints of your two people, and Miss Moore's are beneath yours. She grasped it first."

"Indeed," said Larry Inman, and turned away with a yawn.

CHAPTER XXXII

At Cunningham had always flattered himself that he had detective instinct. But it was flattery, and moreover, it was harsh flattery. For it gave him confidence in himself and in his conclusions which was not justifiable.

His detective instinct was all right up to a certain point. But that point came very near the beginning of the line of detective qualities.

For instance, his imagination was good, but it was untrained. A detective depends frequently on his imagination, but it is not one which runs rampant, or flies off in a new direction at any and every hint that presents itself.

Also, Cunningham lacked experience in many ways. He had intuition and quick perceptions, but his judgments were hasty and changeable; his sympathies too easily enlisted, and his personal bias too dominant in his conclusions.

If Mott had had Cunningham's brains in addition to his own, he would have been a first-class sleuth. But Mott's strong points were his persistence and his dogged perseverance. Too often these were applied to a promising outlook, would be easily turned aside by some sudden development, which might or might not be of real importance.

Had the two men chosen to work together and work harmoniously, they might have accomplished much. But in truth, each held the other's powers in contempt, and pursued his own way, with more or less success.

Myra Heath had been killed Tuesday night, or rather in the early hours of Wednesday morning. About two o'clock, the doctors had surmised, but had admitted that might be from half an hour to an hour out of the way.

It was not late Thursday afternoon, and Cunningham couldn't feel that he had, so far, unearthed any real evidence or discovered any real clues. He was sure the Bunny Moore either did the deed, or knew who did it, but his certainty went for little without proof.

He despaired of finding Perry Heath, feeling certain that a clever man who could disappear so mysteriously.

ously was not going to let himself be found until he was good and ready. Cunningham rather thought that Bunty had killed Myra accidentally, and that Heath knew it, and had gone away to save the girl from his enforced evidence.

But this, too, was only surmise, and with little foundation, at that. So, rather discouraged, and with his vanity somewhat disturbed, Cunningham walked into the club, with a half formed intention of telling his friends there that he could not solve the mystery.

But on reaching the club he was given a note that proved to be from Sam Anderson.

"Dear Bunty," it ran. "I've gone down to New York on a mere chance of getting a line on Heath. I shall get back about nine, or possibly later. I wish you'd be at my house when I return. I may have news, but more likely not. Anyway, be there, and we can talk over things. Wait for me on the side porch. Yours, Sam."

Cunningham felt relieved at this promised help of Anderson's, but also felt a bit chagrined that the matter had been taken out of his own hands. However, he proceeded to put in the time pleasantly enough, had his dinner at the club, and a bit before the appointed hour, he strolled over to Anderson's house.

It was a solid, pretentious affair, built with an eye to bachelor freedom and luxury. A house typical of Harbor Park and entirely unlike the homes in Harbor Gardens.

Knowing well the side porch in question, Cunningham went there and sat down to wait. No formality was required, for Anderson's friends often congregated in this spot, and the big, cozy place was supplied with comfortable lounging chairs, smoking stands and all that went to make entertainment.

A butler appeared, and asked Cunningham what he could bring him, and then filled his order with the deft promptness of a well-trained servant and left the visitor alone.

Cunningham stretched himself luxuriously in a chintz cushioned steamer chair, with pipe and glass at his elbow, and ruminated on the possibilities of Anderson's gettany any trace of Heath.

At nine o'clock his host had not appeared, but a few moments after nine he saw a shadowy form approaching and a man came quietly up on the porch and sat down beside him.

Though dark, there was enough light from a house window for Cunningham to see the features of this man, and to his stunned amazement he realized it was Perry Heath.

"Don't raise a row, Bunty," Heath said, calmly. "I won't get you anywhere, you know, and if you sit tight, I may be able to help you."

Cunningham's quick wits accepted this, and he said: "All right, old man—I thought you'd turn up sooner or later. Now, tell me all about it."

"Where's Anderson? He's the one I came to see. I thought it was he sitting here."

"No, he's gone to New York to hunt you. But he'll be home now, any minute. You'll wait for him?"

"Sure I will, Bunty, what are you doing in the sleuthing line?"

"Why, I—good Lord, Perry, I can't sit here and talk calmly to you! I ought to be telephoning the police and all that!"

"Don't try it. I'm not the murderer, you know."

"Who is?"

"Larry, of course. I only blew in here for a minute to tell Sam that, and to ask him to see justice done. I know they're suspecting that mite of a girl, little Bunty, but she didn't do it. Only a blind, pig-headed imbecile could do such a thing!"

"Why are you in hiding?" Cunningham demanded.

"I'm not in hiding. I lit out because I didn't want to testify against Larry, but when that kiddy is accused, I have to put in a word for her."

"You saw Inman commit the crime?"

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and Boppy

Copyright, 1926, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily Longears took from his pocket a penny which he tossed up in the air. He tossed the penny, you understand, not his pocket, for his pocket was sewed fast to his red trousers.

"What are you throwing money away for?" asked Baby Bunty, the little rabbit girl, as she watched what the bunny gentleman was doing.

"I am not throwing money away," answered Mr. Longears. "I am tossing up the penny to see whether I shall go to the left or to the right to look for an adventure." And just then the penny, which he had flung into the air, came down to the ground. Looking at it the rabbit gentleman exclaimed:

"Ah, it heads! I shall go to the right!"

"Did the Indian's head on the penny tell you to go that way?" asked Baby Bunty. "And if it didn't, how would you know? And, anyhow, I didn't hear the Indian say anything, and maybe he told you to go to the left."

"No!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "The Indian's head on the penny didn't really say anything. But I said to myself, said I: 'I will toss a penny in the air. If it comes down with the head up I will go to the right, and if it comes down with the words 'One Cent' up, I will go to the left. So now you see why I am going to the right."

"I see," answered Bunty, "and I am coming with you."

As Uncle Wiggily smiled and twinkled his pink nose, the little orphan rabbit girl knew it was all right. So, taking hold of his paw, Bunty went with Uncle Wiggily. They had not gone very far before, all of a sudden, they heard some one in the bushes saying:

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear! Oh, dear!"

The Admiral Oriental liner steamship President Jefferson, Capt. Francis R. Nichols, sailed from Yokohama for Victoria and Seattle on September 10, and is due here September 20, according to word received this morning by W. M. Allan, local general passenger agent.

The vessel, according to the wire, has seventy-five cabin passengers and 175 in the steerage. The vessel is also bringing 2,500 tons of cargo, included in which is a shipment of 1,500 bales of raw silk, and 100 cases of silk goods. Several hundred tons of general cargo coming in on this vessel is for intercoastal services.

The trans-Pacific liner President McKinley will sail for the Orient next Sunday according to schedule, this being one of the few Sunday sailings brought about by the regular rotating of this company's service. Among those who will depart on the McKinley will be E. J. Matteson, agent for the Dollar Line at Shanghai, who was recently bereaved by the death of his young son, which occurred last week at San Francisco.

Mr. Norman was about forty years of age and was unmarried. He served with the Canadian forces in the Great War, first with the Seventh Battalion and later with the Canadian Engineers.

So far as can be learned at present he has no relatives in Canada but has relations residing in West End Morecombe, Lancashire, England.

SHIP BRINGS FURS FROM THE ARCTIC

Voyage of Vessel Now Back in Port of Vancouver is Described

Vancouver, Sept. 12.—With a fur pack estimated to be worth $100,000, the Vancouver Arctic trading schooner Old Maid No. 2, of which Capt. Karl Klengenberg is owner and master, is in port from the Arctic, having made a record trip inward and outward. The ship arrived here exactly three months after she had sailed for the north.

On July 19 she was off Point Barrow and entered the Arctic ice pack several days before Arctic navigators usually brave that treacherous field. Reports were received that the ship was caught and in distress and United States coast patrol vessels tried to get in to her assistance but failed.

"We were in no danger," said Capt. Klengenberg to-day. "We knew the ice. The trouble is that lots of those fellows up there are afraid of the ice."

TOUGH ENOUGH

Six days after the pack closed its teeth on the Old Maid No. 2 it found the boat too hard a nut to crack. Some silvers of iron bark were stripped from her sides, and the outer parts of some planks were furred up by the rubbing of the cakes, but that was all the damage done. When well past Point Barrow the vessel reached and collected the fur catch of the preceding winter, going as far east as Victoria Land.

The vessel left here with a cargo valued at $60,000. She discharged it all at the three posts maintained by Klengenberg, and collected the fur catch of the preceding winter, going as far east as Victoria Land.

Arriving at one of his posts, he found thirteen natives reduced to "skin and bones."

He treated them at once and in three days they had recovered.

Further east Klengenberg, the casualty total from the sickness reached nearly 100 men and women. This loss, in a sparsely-settled district, was considered severe.
